The Red Sky cataclysm that happened centuries ago has threatened to return. Mages from the highest ranks and visitors from all nations of Dantir came together to try and find the cause of the magical disturbance. In their efforts, a great magical ritual was performed to take explorers away from Eluvia and into the unknown places beyond the portal stones.

But the ritual has had some unintended consequences. People travelling in the portal stone network were swept away, finding themselves landing in places they did not know. After escaping a wild forest full of magic, the travellers now find themselves alone in the dark. They will have to bring together all their magic skills and their courage to find their way home.

Event game play includes some linear games and some freeform time.

Can I play my PC at this event?

This game is set in a location isolated from the usual Dantir world. A large group of travellers left at the last weekend event (Elantir September 2017) and has come to this place. If your PC was at Elantir September 2017, this PC is now here in the dark.

If your PC was not there, you may choose to join this group. However, once there, you may not be able to play that character in other Dantir events.

New players and new characters — You can always make a new PC to participate in any event.

Not sure? Check with the GMs when booking your ticket as to which character you can use.
